

Adding value and creating wealth

We offer partners a ‘white-label’ service. Acting on your behalf, we will liquidise your clients’ unwanted print assets, releasing value.

It is a profit-share opportunity

Offering to dispose of unwanted print assets can give you an edge when working to secure new contracts. At Restock, we specialise in asset recovery. We aim to generate the best possible financial return for unwanted print hardware and consumables. That value can be shared with your clients.

Implementation is easy. There is no need for you to divert staff or resources; you just need to introduce the concept. Acting on your behalf, we will provide a comprehensive and confidential end-to-end asset recovery service. Your clients need never know that Restock is involved.

And we manage service delivery

Our services are tailored to your needs and those of your customers, regardless of the number of unwanted print assets, or the size and complexity of the project. Collection of unwanted items can be made in accordance with your schedule and at a time that suits your customer.

Our asset recovery programme complies with the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE) Directive. A partnership with Restock will allow you to reassure your clients that their unwanted print assets are processed in accordance with the latest environmental legislation.

Identifying and recovering stock

Too much stock? Too little time? We can help you identify and value your print assets. It is as easy as 1, 2, 3.

Identifying redundant stock

Whilst the financial returns may be significant, identifying assets can be a challenge. Obsolete machines may have been mothballed and consumables pushed to the back of a cupboard. And finding stock is only half the battle. Having identified redundant assets, how do you realise best value for them?

Complete our inventory form, email a list of assets or call us to arrange an on-site audit.

Sustainable recovery, reuse and recycling

Our asset recovery, reuse and recycling programme complies with the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE) Directive.

Environmentally sustainable recovery service

Restock provides an environmentally sustainable recovery service. We are experts in redeployment. The machines and consumables we collect are remarketed, wherever possible, to maximise the financial return for our clients and reduce the environmental impact of disposal.

Assets that we cannot redeploy are recycled in accordance with the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE) Directive. Our partner is a leading commercial recycler who holds ISO 9001 (quality management system) and ISO 14001 (environmental management system) accreditation.

Our commitment to sustainability

Disposing of your surplus print assets through Restock demonstrates a tangible commitment to your CSR and recycling and environmental policies. Hardware, consumables and packaging collected by us are redeployed or recycled with minimal impact on the environment.

We can collect throughout the UK and Europe, regardless of volume, frequency and the number of sites involved. We work alongside other suppliers involved in the project to ensure everything runs smoothly and to minimise disruption to your business operations.
